Appendix A

On 9 April 2025, President Donald Trump announced, among others, (a) a 90-day pause on “reciprocal tariffs” on imports, (b) the imposition of a 10 percent baseline tariff on imports from all foreign countries (including Vietnam and Thailand) from 5 April 2025, and (c) a tariff of up to 145 percent on imports from China which took effect from 10 April 2025 (the “Tariffs Announcement”).

Question 1

Does the Company ship any of its products directly to the United States of America (the “U.S.”), and if so, will the shipment of the Company’s products be subject to any direct tariffs?

Company’s Response

A portion of the Group’s products are exported to the U.S., either directly or indirectly. Products directly shipped to the U.S. are subject to tariffs under the U.S.’s current trade policies. Given the presence of certain exemptions and evolving regulations, the Group is carefully assessing the broader implications and working closely with the Group’s customers to evaluate the potential overall impact.

Question 2

In light of the Tariffs Announcement, as at 18 April 2025, has any of the Company’s customers requested for a pause and/or delay to the production and/or shipment of the Company’s products?

Company’s Response

In light of the increased U.S. tariffs, some customers have shown signs of uncertainty with a few customers indicating their intention to suspend or delay shipments. The Group will continue to closely monitor and assess the evolving situation.

Question 3

In light of the Tariffs Announcement, has any of the Company’s customers in the Artificial Intelligence, Office Automation or TV/Display industries requested for a reduction in the price of the Company’s products?

Company’s Response

As at the date hereof, none of the Company’s customers in the Artificial Intelligence, Office Automation and TV/Display industries have requested a reduction in the price of the Company’s products in response to the Tariffs Announcement. Nevertheless, the Group remains in close communication with its customers and continues to monitor any potential developments on their end.
